

Tomatoes (Large)

The lettuce markets remain inflated. Wet, cold weather during February caused maturation to slow and has exacerbated the existing supply gap. Domestic iceberg lettuce shipments last week fell 14% from the prior week and were 16% less than the same week last year. Warmer weather has occurred in the major growing areas during the last week, but cooler temperatures are forecasted. Lettuce prices could remain volatile in the near term. The avocado markets are relatively deflated but the risk in these markets remains to the upside.
