The lettuce markets have firmed as supplies tighten. The lettuce harvest is expected to remain subpar this week which could underpin prices. The extension of the government food box program could be supportive as well. Further, history suggests that the iceberg lettuce market could remain firm in the near term. The five-year average move for the iceberg lettuce market during the next three weeks is an increase of 3.2%. Larger sized Idaho russet potato supplies remain seasonally limited. Firm potato prices are likely to persist into the summer.
